1. Applicant's election with traverse of the invention of the 1st species said to read on claims 1-9, 24, 27-28 and 32-33 in the reply filed on October 30, 2004 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that the examiner did not shown that the requirements for restriction between distinct inventions had been met and new claims 27 and 32 are generic claims. This is not found persuasive because this was an election of species requirement and the requirements for showing distinction in a restriction requirement are not relevant therein.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Note is agreed that claim 27 would read on the 1st species but not necessarily agreed that it is a generic apparatus claim since the second and third species apparatus claims do not specify that the conduit is thermally conductive.

2. The amendment filed October 30, 2004 has been entered.

3. Claims 10-23, 25-26, 29-31 and 34-35 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on Oct.30, 2004.

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 1, 5, 24, 27, 28 and 32-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Daum et al US 4,856,352.

Note abstract, fig. 2 and col. 5, lines 3-4. The slanted portion of sampling probe/heat pipe 32 is the 1st segment, the remaining portion the second segment and the interior the main cavity.

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Daum et al.

Daum et al does not show the use of plural heat pipes but such would have been an obvious expedient to increase heat transfer and/or to allow for parallel sampling. Having the sampling conduit integral within the main body would have been an obvious expedient to provide stability and ease thermal transfer. In Baum et al the sampled fluid and vapor could be considered the working fluid.

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The cited references show the use of heat pipes in sampling, isothermal sampling and/or sampling of moving fluids. Silvis et al US 6,481,299 is possibly not prior art.

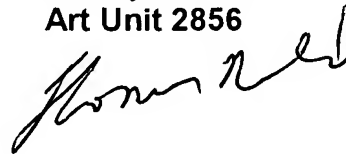

9. Claims 6-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

10. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Tom Noland whose telephone number is (571) 272-2202. The examiner can normally be reached on weekdays from 9:00 to 5:30.
